

1) UFMG

1.1 ) Introduction

Founded in 1927, the Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais / UFMG (Federal University of Minas Gerais) is noted nationally and internally for its excellence, on account both of its academic and scientific work and of the professional training it provides in a huge range of subjects. It is recognised as one of the most important universities in Brazil, with outstanding performance in teaching, research and outreach.

In Belo Horizonte, the capital of the State of Minas Gerais, UFMG is situated on the following sites: the Pampulha Campus, which comprises most of its activities; the Health Campus, comprising the Medical Faculty, the Nursing School and the University hospital buildings; and the city centre sites of the Faculty of Law and the School of Architecture. The Montes Claros Campus comprises the Institute of Agricultural Science in the city of Montes Claros, in the north of Minas Gerais.

UFMG offers a wide range of museums and places of scientific and cultural interest, such as the Cultural Centre, the UFMG Conservatory, the Natural History Museum, the Botanical Gardens and the Museum of Morphological Science, all of which are open to the public. In addition it organises major arts events, such as the Winter and Summer Festivals. Mention should also be made of the services provided in the Hospital das Clínicas, the Risoleta Neves Hospital, the Dental Faculty and the Veterinary Hospital, as well as the sporting and recreational activities conducted in the Centro Esportivo Universitário / CEU (University Sports Centre) and the Centro de Treinamento Esportivo / CTE (Sports Training Centre).

UFMG's excellence includes the desire to become more and more democratic through activities of social inclusion. Examples of this are the bonus policy for disadvantaged groups in the university entrance exams, the Affirmative Action Programme and the Special Programme of Academic Grants for Evening-Course Students.

Teaching

The quality of UFMG's undergraduate courses has been verified by both internal and external assessment, which show high levels of intellectual and scientific output. Excellent course performance reflects the excellent teaching staff and infrastructure and demonstrates the University's competence and reliability. More than 6,000 undergraduate places are available each year.

With respect to postgraduate study, UFMG has distinguished itself through its decisive role in the training of researchers and teachers who are working in institutions throughout Brazil and abroad. The university currently has more than 70 postgraduate programmes, with more than 14,000 places offered each year, covering medical residencies, specialisation, masters and doctorates in a wide range of subject areas. In addition, the university offers courses by distance learning, with more than 2,000 students in 2012.

Research

A centre of excellence in research, UFMG has cutting-edge projects in more than 800 groups which are formally registered with the Research Groups Directorate of the National Council for Scientific and Technological Development) and which cover all areas of knowledge.

Outreach

UFMG is recognised nationally and internationally as a pioneer in outreach work, especially in the way it integrates that work with research and teaching. On the one hand, it is the research activity which enriches and sustains activities and projects developed alongside various institutions and social groups; On the other hand, the outreach activities demonstrate constant interaction between the University and society, thus ensuring the dynamism and sense of relevance and social commitment of the research undertaken. UFMG has projects in various areas of social vulnerability in Minas Gerais, and works in the fields of environmental protection, citizenship and public safety, education, health and preventive and social medicine, the promotion of cultural diversity and heritage preservation, technology transfer, technological innovation and entrepreneurship, amongst others. In 2011, its outreach activities benefited more than 17 million people.

UFMG and the World

UFMG has built an increasingly impressive network of international partnerships as a result of its activities in collaboration with colleagues and research centres in different countries and in all continents. International exchanges are offered from the start of students' training on undergraduate courses, and have been significantly enhanced for postgraduate programmes through the support of funding agencies. The University is continually improving its facilities for the reception of foreign students and researchers, and for the consolidation of international groups and networks that work in research, teaching and extension. Thus, UFMG has entered into agreements and partnerships with centres of excellence in a number of countries. Fundamental to these is a spirit of multilateralism and reciprocity.

4) BELO HORIZONTE

4.1) About the City

Belo Horizonte, the first wholly planned city in Brazil, is the capital of Minas Gerais. Inaugurated on 12 December 1897, on the site of a previous settlement called Corral Del Rey, it has a population of about 2.2 million. It is located in the South East Region, a strategic geographical point in the country. The city is ringed by the Serra do Curral mountain range, which provides a natural boundary and is full of history. In addition to its natural advantages and ease of access by air and road, the capital of Minas Gerais is notable for its architectural beauty, its strong vocation for commerce and services, and its rich artistic and cultural production. Apart from enjoying the renowned hospitality of the people of Belo Horizonte and the excellent Mineiran cuisine, visitors can visit the city's beautiful squares and parks, such as the Praça do Papa, the Parque Municipal, the Parque Mangabeiras, the Parque Ecológico and the Parque da Lagoa do Nado. The architectural complex around Pampulha Lake, designed by the architect Oscar Niemeyer, deserves special attention. The climate is mild, with temperatures ranging between 16 and 31 degrees, the average being 21°C. Winters are dry and summers rainy.

4.2) Basic Information

In some cases, restaurants do not include a service charge in the bill (which is normally stated on the menu). In such cases, a tip of 10% is normal.

It is customary to tip hotel porters (those who carry your luggage from the taxi to the reception, and those who carry it to your room) and the valet who parks your car or drives it from the car park. In such informal cases, the amount of the tip varies - there is no standard amount. It is not usual to tip taxi drivers. If necessary, round up the cost of the taxi ride.

Health: Some medications, such as anti-inflammatory, antipyretic and analgesic drugs, may be purchased by telephone. Belo Horizonte has a rich and dynamic cultural life. Of particular note are: museums, such as the Museu de Artes e Ofícios, Inhotim-Instituto de Arte Contemporânea, the Jardim Botânico and the Museu das Minas e do Metal; cultural centres with a wide range of exhibitions, both permanent and temporary; festivals and competitions, such as the Festival Internacional de Teatro, the Festival Internacional de Dança or the traditional Comida de Buteco; and theatre, music and dance productions.

The city also has a wide variety of theatres, cinemas, museums and cultural centres, including: the Museu de Arte da Pampulha, the UFMG Centro Cultural, the Museu Histórico Abílio Barreto, the Centro de Referência Audiovisual, the Palácio das Artes and the Praça da Liberdade cultural complex.

Belo Horizonte is also a starting point for many historical and ecological walks. In the historic cities of Minas Gerais you will be able to appreciate a lavish abundance of baroque architecture. The paths, springs, rivers and waterfalls in the surrounding countryside are ideal for the ecotourist.
