TEACHING ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE (TESL)

The MA TESL provides you with theory and practical skills needed for English language teaching and related career paths. It also prepares you for further study in applied linguistics and associated fields.

Requirements:

- TOEFL 92/IELTS 7
- Personal letter of intent

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING AND COMPUTER SCIENCE

With an MS in Computer Science or Electrical Engineering, you'll be prepared to enter the workforce or continue to a doctoral program. Computer scientists develop complex software and computer systems central to contemporary science, engineering, industry, and business. Electrical engineers develop electrical and electronic components, devices, and systems.

Requirements:

- GRE completion
- Personal statement
- 2 letters of recommendation

FORESTRY

By pursuing an MS in Forestry, you will acquire the skills to become a forestry researcher and help shape the future of the field. The program will prepare you for a career in the private sector or with a public land management agency.

Requirements:

- 3 references (names and contact information)
- Résumé/CV
- Statement of research interests
- Must contact faculty in department before applying

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

The MS in Mechanical Engineering is a thesis-based/research-focused program. It is valuable to engineers interested in doctoral studies and academic or professional careers in research or product innovation.

Requirements:

- GRE minimums: Quantitative 151, Verbal 148, Written 3.0
- 3 letters of recommendation
- Personal statement

SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES

The MA in Sustainable Communities delves into complex issues of contemporary society, especially linked social and environmental problems. You will address these issues through deep inquiry and a merging of theoretical and applied work.

Requirements:

- 3 letters of recommendation
